Managing a Conference:
A Peek behind the Scenes
by Annette Cook, NADE Conference Manager

Have you ever managed a local or state professional development conference? If so, you have an idea of what goes into the planning. Multiply that planning by twenty and you may have an idea of what goes into the preparation for a national conference. The number of details that are involved are infinite. The work starts long before the previous year's conference begins and continues after the conference is over. It takes a team and the support of the Executive Board to host a successful conference. For NADE 2018, we were fortunate to have a fantastic team of volunteers as well as terrific support from the board. For both of those, I am extremely grateful.

Some conference attendees may not know that contracts for conference locations are signed many years in advance. This is noticeable in the exhibit hall where we promote the next two locations of our conference. Advance scheduling, which is necessary, limits what can be done at the last minute when it comes to location. Also, large hotels/conference centers may host several conferences at the same time which always makes it interesting. This also provides a golden opportunity for NADE conference attendees to share the inclusive philosophy we have with students to others, especially when they are unaware of what NADE does: "helping underprepared students prepare, prepared students advance, advanced students excel."

Keeping the cost of the NADE conference affordable for our members has always been a priority for the Executive Board. When compared to the registration cost of other national conferences, NADE is one of the least expensive. See below for a peek of what the NADE registration fee covers. (Figures given are for the 2018 conference.) For example, did you know there is a charge to have electricity provided for a meeting room? Keep in mind that hotel contracts do not allow outside food and beverage in conference space. NADE must use the banquet services provided by the hotel as required by the contract.

ITEM	COST
1 can of soda	$6.50
1 gallon of coffee	$104
Continental breakfast	$36
Saturday breakfast buffet	$45.50
Extension cord	$15
Power strip	$25
Electricity/power supplied to one room	$80

In addition to the numbers above, there is an additional 25% service charge plus tax per item. Where possible, we are charged by consumption rather than what is supplied. The NADE planning team also strives to achieve tax exempt status in the state where the conference is held, but that is largely relative to the host chapter and state tax laws.

NADE relies heavily on support from exhibitors. Members are urged to encourage publishers, student support agencies, and other potential vendors to support NADE conferences by being an exhibitor and sponsoring special events at the conference such as the Newcomer & International Reception, Leadership Congress meals, and general session meals.

Serving as Conference Manager this year has certainly been an eye-opening experience. The new NADE Conference Committee, like past conference planning teams, will evaluate needs and save money where possible for NADE 2019 where we will be “Prepared for Takeoff.”

INSTITUTIONAL MEMBERSHIP RATE CHANGE

NADE offers institutional membership for ten members from the same institution. On February 19, the Executive Board approved a change to the institutional membership rate. Effective May 1, the rate will be $700 which is a $50 increase from the current rate of $650. This rate still includes a discount for institutions as individual membership is $75 each. The former conference fee waiver for one administrator from the institution has been discontinued.

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

FOR THE POSITIONS OF NADE VICE-PRESIDENT AND NADE TREASURER

The NADE Executive Board is issuing a call for nominations for Vice-President and Treasurer who will serve on the Board beginning March 9, 2019. Installation is at the 2019 NADE Conference.

Please note that the deadline for nominations is September 15, 2018.

The Executive Board welcomes and is actively soliciting nominations from NADE Chapters and from individual NADE members. Nominees should be aware of and willing to pursue nomination for a specific position. The Election Committee will submit all nominees, along with their professional resumes and recommendations to the Executive Board. The Board will then review the names and information submitted, the Election Committee recommendations, and determine the slate for the ballot. The Election Committee will present to the membership the final list of candidates in electronic ballot form.

A suggested nomination does not automatically constitute a place on the slate. In the interest of diversity, the following factors will be considered: geographical location and type of institution (e.g., two year, four year; public, private). Other factors include interest level, resume, developmental education/learning assistance experience, presentations and publications, references, length of membership in NADE at the chapter and national level, and description of previous NADE leadership activities (e.g., chapter leader, national committee chair or member, SPIN group chair). Leadership in other associations may be considered as well.

In addition to meeting the specific qualifications for each position, Board officers are also expected to fulfill more general but essential roles as team members who take an active role in running the Association, so candidate selection will be made "...in the Association's best interests and priorities" (NADE Bylaws, Article V, Section 2). The Election Committee will send each nominee a copy of the appropriate job description.

Nominees should have sufficient time and institutional support for the activities necessary to carry out the duties of the respective positions. Institutional support may be demonstrated in a variety of ways (e.g., secretarial help; costs for telephone calls, mailing, copying and travel.) Institutional support of the suggested nominee's institution must be provided in written form (e.g., promise that the nominee will receive additional leave to attend executive board meetings and NADE conferences, time to respond to telephone calls during work hours, time to conduct some association business during work hours).

Guided Pathways & Advising Network Report

by Andy Miller and Bev Maxton

During the NADE 2018 Leadership Congress, several changes were made to help position our networks as critical resources in our efforts to serve our students. One change that we hold near and dear, is the marriage of Guided Pathways and Advising to form the “Guided Pathways / Advising Network.” This merger is greater than the sum of its parts; the complementary nature of advising and Guided Pathways are so integrally woven into the very fabric of student success, that we can now leverage the strengths of each group to more intentionally prepare the school for the student, as opposed to steadfastly expecting all students to come prepared for us. The ideas of mapping pathways to student end goals, helping students choose and enter a pathway, and keeping students on their path have given a ubiquitous framework and common language to the critical tenets advisors have espoused for decades.

Schreiner, Tinto, and our very own Dr. Boylan all attest to the imperative of campus wide commitment to student success and retention efforts. As we look to the National Academic Advising Association (NACADA), they have worked tirelessly to position advising as more than just an ancillary support service, more than just the class pickers on campus. To use Tim Elmore’s comparison, we have become Tour Guides, more so than Travel Agents. We don’t just tell students where to go and what to do, we come alongside students and guide them along the path of their educational journey. Who wouldn’t want to be part of that? At the core of who we are, as educators, is this insatiable desire to help students discern their educational and life goals, to help students realize those dreams, and to provide support when students stumble off their path. As co-chairs, Bev and I invite you and your colleagues to join our network, irrespective of your current role in Developmental Education. Perhaps you are faculty, an advisor, heck even a faculty advisor; whether you’re an academic coach, a counselor, or lead the tutoring efforts on your campus, you serve a critical role in the wellbeing of students. It takes a village, and today’s students yearn for the myriad supports of faculty, advisors, learning support, and countless others. Let the GPA Network come alongside you in your efforts to help students choose and enter a path, stay on that path, and ensure they are learning.

Pennsylvania Association of Developmental Educators (PADE) Report by Michael Spinks

Earlier this year, the Pennsylvania Association of Developmental Educators (PADE) conducted a strategic planning retreat, reflecting on, revising, and developing its mission and values to create strategic initiatives for 2017 until 2021 while dedicating itself to the vision to “be the premier professional organization for the advancement of developmental education” in Pennsylvania.

On Thursday, April 5th, and Friday April 6th, PADE will host its annual conference. This year’s conference is in York, PA, and there are a full range of topics--Reading, Writing, Mathematics, Integrated Reading & Writing, Diversity/Inclusion, Administration, Tutoring Services, Technology, and more--illustrating very clearly how broad and holistic Developmental Education is, the various approaches we take to help improve student success, and the important role members have as scholar-practitioners as professionals in the field.

This year’s keynote is the Honorable James Roebuck, Member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, Democrat from the 188th Legislative District, who first elected to the PA House 1985. Representative Roebuck is currently the Chairman of the Education Committee and is a Board Member of the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, among his numerous other roles,

This year's plenary session is with the new president NADE, Dr. Deborah Daiek, whose national's point-of-view on the past, the present, and the future of Developmental Education should provide additional valuable insights as participants explore our conference theme of "Prepare, Advance, & Excel: The Future of Developmental Education."

Interested people who have yet to register for the conference can still do so online or just by walking in. More information can be found here: <http://www.pade-pa.org/annual-conference>

Furthermore, if you are interested in becoming a member of PADE or becoming involved with PADE in order to have a broader, positive impact on Developmental Education in PA, feel free to email us at padeorg@gmail.com, call or text us at (717) 827-7233, or connect with us on social media--Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, or LinkedIn.
